DEDICATION

THE ESSENCE of her charm and grace permeates all who know her. "Christian Standard" is her motto, and this we see stressed in all her walks of life. "To know her is to love her," and her kindly counsel which she so willingly gives lifts one into realms of reality, like the dawn after a night that is long.

Thus it is fitting that as the strain of our beloved Alma Mater entwines its melody around our hearts, we, the 1941 Senior Class of Harding, do dedicate this volume of the Petit Jean to our Dean of Women, and the author of our Alma Mater,

MRS. FLORENCE M. CATHCART

FOREWORD

Now standing on the threshold of life, the class of 1941 faces the challenge of a shifting world, a world far different from the one we leave.

In portraying life at Harding we have attempted to capture a bit of that intangible and indefinable spirit that hovers about the place even as the ivy climbing its walls has become a part of Godden Hall.

If memories of happy hours and friendships may be recalled, if the spirit of Harding may live in our hearts, if the ideals of Harding may be seen in our lives, if the Petit Jean is a reminder of ordinary days—of passing from chapel to classes, the smiling friendliness when we met, the outings when the woods were red with fall or green with spring, our sitting by the fishpond beneath the flowering peach, and of the loyalty that surged in our hearts as we sang "Alma Mater"—then our purpose is fulfilled.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. BATSELL BAXTER

"A worthy woman who can find, for her price is far above rubies."

These words of Solomon portray accurately the character of Sister Batsell Baxter who died on December 24, 1940. During her thirty years with Brother Baxter she was an ideal helpmeet and a steadfast supporter in the Bible School work. Queenly and abounding in good works, her warm heart always held comfort for the distressed.

An everlasting monument to her beautiful Christian womanhood stands in the memory of all who knew her.

Book One

"Near the foothills of the Ozarks Midst of hill and plain"

A LONELY GRAVE and a legend dim with the dust of years are all that tell of the romance and the sorrow that surrounded the life of Cheves, and of the sorrow that shrouded Adrienne.

It was not an ordinary parting when he kissed her. Though he planned to return, he never again saw the waves break on the shores of France. Adrienne, half fearing that her plan would fail, took the part of the cabin boy on the ship with Cheves. Disguised and under the name of Jean she sailed with him to America.

Winding their way up swollen rivers they at last anchored at the foot of a mountain soft with trees. The Indians were friendly and the ship swung at anchor through the warm days of summer.

As the summer is the time for happiness, autumn is the time for sorrow; Petit Jean died. In her last few hours she called for Cheves and once again became Adrienne.

The Indians dug her grave. And still they say her spirit haunts the mountain in the wind, or rides the swirling water at its foot. The mountain where she lies now bears her name

PETIT JEAN

DR. GEORGE S. BENSON
PRESIDENT OF HARDING COLLEGE

To Harding Students of Nineteen Forty-One:
It is a genuine pleasure to record,
through the medium of the Petik year,
a message to those whose faces make its pages immortal.

The year 1940-41, which has been a banner year for Harding College, will go down in history as a most crucial one for our nation. It has witnessed the alarming approach of the raging conflict of Europe; the development of seriously increasing tension in the Pacific; and gravely growing internal dissention.

In this hour of national crisis
I appeal to the students of Harding College to stand fearless and steadfast in their faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, remembering that it is God who sets the limits of the habitations of the nations.
Righteousness is the greatest asset of any nation. Therefore in your desire to be of service in this crisis, I appeal to you, above every thing else, to labor to increase righteousness in America.

Sincerely,
Geo S. Benson

"Stands our glorious Alma Mater; Harding is her name."

To the Students of Harding College - 1941

For many years we have written messages for your Yearbook. We shall write the last message, but some of these years doing that very thing right now.

You have been lovely to us this year, and we owe you a debt of gratitude. Our hearts are full of you. Within a few weeks, you - the student body of 1941 will be sifted into the ranks of the society of twenty-six states. If, in your own little worlds in the years to come, you exhalt the fundamentals of Christianity, and build in your lives and communities a deeper reverence for God - a reverence and a piety seldom found in your students; if you stand for the ideals of the Max of Galilee, and support unselfishly in the life of Harding College, you justify our belief in you; we are counting upon you; you will live in our hearts forever.

HARVEY DYKES

Harvey Dykes, a quiet, unassuming Christian, knew the principles of right living and stood firmly upon them. Courageous, yet cautious, he was no troublemaker.

"A bruised reed shall he not break," words which described Christ, also describe Harvey Dykes.

For seven years he served faithfully, efficiently, and cheerfully as the college carpenter. His love for Christian education was evident by his providing one for his children.

A Study In Expressions of Hardingites

1. Ah, what a beautiful day. 2. Christmas has at last come. 3. Nancy concentrates on a drawing. 4. A little diligent study by Maurice. 5. The train pulls in but they are ready. 6. The sweetheart of the campus. 8. Kohler is not really bashful. 9. He must have just sold Bro. Bell that car. 10. Oscar has a new growth of sod. 11. What a rare collection of beauty, intelligence, and—. 12. My, that was shocking. 13. Speedy, Junior, chews his cud. 14. Bob's pride and joy. 15. This smile has some strange power. 16. And whose picture is in the locket? 17. Even the candid cameraman is not immune to his own tricks. 18. Marjorie smiles winningly. 19. Kern has a deliberate look at the present. 20. Helen takes a natural pose. 21. This is really Johnnie. 22. We must certainly meet again. 23. This smile is not put on. 24. Beautiful Beulah.

Twelve Different Views of Harding Life

1. The pride and joy of the Cope household. 2. Chapel is over and classes are resumed. 3. "Ma" plans the daily bill of fare. 4. Thednel paid for his Petit Jean with pennies saved from odd change. 5. It would seem that Don has Bill doing a little paying. 6. Why the startled look, Nurse? 7. Unk tries to be a tough character but we know different. 8. The disclosing of the Unamericanism in "100 Per Cent American." 9. Three of our number who were pretty close buddies. 10. And why the distressed look on the face of our editor. 11. Two eligible young belles out for a little exercise. 12. The home of the president almost finished externally.

Choose the best one . . . they're all different

1. "Just between you and me and the telephone post—" 2. Verle makes a nice ornament for the front of the college car. 3. This is purely a discussion of former good times. 4. You can see a little similarity to the old Egyptian pyramids. 5. Opaline finds her name in a great number of places. 6. There is no percentage in this if you have to stand very long in one spot. 7. The scaffold of the new house gets quite a bit of use. 8. Ma is really quite harmless even though she may not look it. 9. A delegation of Ju-Go-Ju's show off their new jackets. 10. Two cousins and a dog have a big time on an outing. 11. Louise, do you really think that primping on an outing helps any? 12. Don thinks that he is Napoleon but if this is exile, it is not too bad. 13. There is nothing that brings out rhythm as much as skating. 14. Ann and her mamma on a very windy day. 15. Such affection! But then it is necessary to give vent to our feelings. 16. Louis, she is very sorry for the way that she acted. 17. It is very plain to see what Vern is doing here and what the rest were doing. 18. Three Harding belles some distance from the school. 19. Dorothy was in a low mood this day.

From Faculty Members To Mascots

It is plain to see that most of these girls could stand the exercise that skating affords . . . The entrance to our Alma Mater by night . . . These two keep S. F. and Mac company and some say that there is a resemblance . . . And how was the hunting today, gentlemen? . . . Part of the gang that was branded a "clique" . . . "Rusty," Frances and Lois in ascending order . . . How did the third member get into that company and maybe that is the cause for the smiles? . . . This is the right place for such (. . .), and the girls don't seem to be having much trouble putting it there . . . The gargoyle does not appear to be happy but I can't see the cause for such a distorted look.

Laboratory Work Is Important In A Number of Fields

The Biology Department is well patronized.

Chemistry finds an important place in the world today.

Girls who can sew are really in demand in the minds of prospective suitors.

The same thing applies to the almost lost art of good cooking.

Typing saves much time in school work as well as in business.

This is an attempted appeal to our more aesthetic nature.

Life In Godden Hall Is About Like This

1. A patron in the chair. 2. Since this picture was taken there have been some additions to sweetheart's row. 3. The two Jims surely do look peaceful at three o'clock in the morning. 4. It doesn't make any difference whose box it was, the food was good. 5. That Sophomore English surely does require much study. 6. A good nap in the middle of a lesson is a big help. 7. Even those who are to safeguard our health sometimes get sick. 8. The next move may mean the game. 9. There will probably be no more of this. 10. Not a Fisk Tire advertisement but Ganus preparing to go to bed. 11. The youngster and Don study before the consolidation of rooms.

This Is A Sample of Pattie Cobb Life

1. Someone must be telling a good story by the looks on the girls' faces. 2. Olive does have such dainty feet as you can easily see. 3. This can't be real studying because of the smiles. 4. A good musical arrangement will certainly result from this work. 5. From the shining countenances, it is hard to tell whose picture this is. But we all know, don't we? 6. Two straws do not allow for so much weight gained from this milk-shake. 7. This is more of the characteristic pose even though there are some open books. 8. They carry on this way far into the night, Mrs. Cathcart. 9. Olive seems to have no fear of falling from the top deck. 10. The girls spend more time getting ready to sleep than they actually sleep. 11. And then there was the boy in the Girls' Dormitory—The young lady? Miss Cluck.

Religion

J. N. ARMSTRONG
Head of Bible Department

Daily Bible Classes

One of the distinctive features of Harding is its emphasis on the Bible and its inspiration. Every student is required to take a Bible course each term, while many choose religious classes for their elective work. Courses are offered in almost every phase of religious study, including homiletics, Christian evidences, church history, and direct studies from the Bible.

Beginning as freshmen, each student is enrolled in Brother Armstrong's or Brother Benson's class in Matthew. He passes from there to Acts and Hebrews before completing the freshman year. The sophomores study, under Brother S. A. Bell, the Pentateuch, the Hebrew Nation, and Inter-Biblical History.

Advanced courses in Bible and religion are taught by Brother B. F. Rhodes, Brother Batsell Baxter, Brother Benson and Mrs. J. N. Armstrong.

The purpose of the Bible Department at Harding is not to produce preachers primarily, but to inspire a deeper reverence for the word of God, and to stimulate personal study and application of Bible truths. No attempt is made to enforce opinions, but all classes are open to discussions of any religious question. The men who compose the Bible Department are men whose lives have been spent in Christian Education, and whose experiences and years of study have qualified them for the work in which they are engaged.

Missionary Atmosphere

Under the guidance of Brother George S. Benson, who spent ten years (1925-36) as a missionary in China, Harding has cultivated a deeply embedded missionary spirit. In years past, many Harding students have been moved by the need of preaching the Gospel on foreign fields, and as a result, a majority of the foreign missionaries are former Harding students.

On Thursday nights of each week, in the Administration Building, a group of students known as the Missionary Forum met regularly throughout the year. Problems confronting foreign missionaries were presented and discussed. The necessity of preaching at home and abroad was stressed, as the need of various fields was presented as a challenge. It was the custom to have men of experience to make frequent talks to the Forum. Maurice Hinds, Jack Nadeau and S. F. Timmerman served as chairmen of the Forum during the year.

During the last two weeks of February, a series of meetings was conducted within a radius of fifteen miles of Searcy, directed by Brother John Lee Dykes and sponsored by the College Congregation. Those who preached in these meetings were George S. Benson, Doyle Earwood, Aubrey Miller, S. A. Bell, S. F. Timmerman, John Dillingham, Virgil Bentley, L. E. Pryor, Sr., Don Bentley, John L. Dykes, Hugh Rhodes, Leon Manley and T. H. Sherrill.

Student Preachers

In so far as their determination was concerned, there was no more active group on the campus than the student preachers. They met monthly and bi-monthly appointments as faithfully as possible, enduring hardships as well as encountering humorous adventures. The stories related by many of them after returning from such experiences would have kept the ordinary person from making another attempt, but not so with Harding preachers.

Under the leadership of Brother John Lee Dykes, many young men were led to devote their lives to preaching the gospel. He arranged appointments for them, and provided transportation in cars purchased for that purpose. As a result of this work, new congregations were established, and old churches were given new life.

Batsell Baxter

It would be impossible to estimate the influences exerted over the student body through the godly lives of its faculty. Brother Batsell Baxter was an addition to the Bible teaching staff this year, and his work has been both worthwhile and appreciated. To him, as well as to every Bible instructor on the campus, the students of Harding College are greatly indebted.

Led by Mrs. Florence M. Cathcart, the girls of Pattie Cobb Hall had inspiring daily vesper services.

Among these influences for good were the weekly prayer meeting services at the church downtown, and the friendly smile and Christian life of its minister, Brother T. H. Sherrill. Brother Sherrill also assisted in the Bible department by acting as substitute in the absence of other Bible teachers.

DAILY CHAPEL SERVICES

The routine of each school day is broken by the morning chapel service. Opening with a song and a prayer, a period of devotion serves to prepare each student to face with greater purpose and enthusiasm the tasks of the day. Though there are programs of a secular nature to add variety and interest, the religious atmosphere is maintained.

Some of the regular features of the chapel services are the Friday speeches by Brother Armstrong, the inspirational suggestions by Brother Benson, and the frequent talks by other members of the faculty. This year, too, a series of lectures from business men was given following the devotional period, to bring the college closer to the business world.

A new feature of the chapel exercises this year was the Saturday chapel singing. Led by Professor Leonard Kirk, the entire assembly joined in the singing of sacred songs, old and new, with the aim of learning to sing them more beautifully.

RELIGIOUS LECTURES

Appearing on the Thanksgiving lecture program this year were A. Hugh Clark, Leon Burns, Granville Tyler, George Emptage, Don H. Morris, E. H. Ijams, J. Harvey Dykes and J. N. Armstrong. Round-table discussions were led by Riley Henry, Carter Grey and others who were present from many States.

During February, Brother W. W. Otey, of Belle Plaine, Kansas, author of "Origin and Destiny of Man" and a student of the theory of evolution, delivered a series of lectures in the chapel assemblies. During the week of his stay he preached each night along evangelistic lines.

PETIT JEAN

All the joy and exaltation of singing the world's great music has been the precious treasure given to the members of the chorus this year. Everyone who loves to sing is welcomed into this group.

Through its numerous concert tours covering 2,000 miles in Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas it has increased the admiration of listeners for beautiful music—and for Harding College.

Professor Leonard Kirk, its director, with his forceful and friendly personality and his musical ability, is largely responsible for its splendid success.

Accompanists for the Chorus have included Mary Agnes Evans, Juanita Seimears, Annette Tapp and Maxine Paxon.

Bill Harris, Lee Lambert, Vernon Boyd, Jack Baker, the members of the Men's Quartet, are popular entertainers.

LEONARD KIRK
Director, Men's Glee Club and Mixed Chorus

FLORENCE FLETCHER JEWELL
Director, Girls' Glee Club

Ever increasing in musical ability as they work patiently and enthusiastically, the girls' and boys' glee clubs can look back on two years of much achievement.

Their repertoires have been built up considerably and include compositions by many famed music masters.

Mrs. Florence Fletcher Jewell, director of the girls' glee club and teacher of voice, has devoted conscientious effort and time to her work as is evidenced in the enjoyable concerts given by the group.

The Kansas-Missouri trip taken in the spring by the boys as well as several shorter tours will be long remembered.

Throughout the year the girls' trio composed of Wanda Hartsell, first soprano, Frances Welch, second soprano, and Arla Ruth Hill, alto, has contributed delightful entertainment on numerous occasions.

Orchestra

Marked progress both musically and numerically has been shown by the band and orchestra during 1940-41. Under the dynamic baton of their director, Mr. William Laas, these organizations have achieved popularity among all for whom they have played.

The orchestra, in addition to playing at school, made several concert tours throughout the State and is looking forward to an even broader schedule next year.

The band added sparkle to many events and various instrumental groups within its number—the brass quartet, trumpet trio, woodwind ensemble, and soloists, entertained at special occasions.

High Point Winners

Ex Berryhill

Pacing the other boys throughout the year, the five high point winners demonstrated their ability to maintain their places at the top of the list. Each was on various winning teams, all-star teams, and was always capable when the competition became toughest. All fought to the finish and rightly deserved the reward of a jacket.

Points were distributed as follows: Greenway 57, Ganus 55, Spencer 49, Smethers 48, Berryhill 45.

Hugh Rhodes, a Harding graduate of 1940, became the athletic director last fall in the absence of M. E. Berryhill.

Under Rhodes' direction, the intramural program was carried out very successfully, with the student body showing an increased interest in athletic activities. More students took an active part in the intramurals, and competition was keen in both boys' and girls' divisions for the honor of being among the fifteen high point winners.

Although he was faced with various problems, Rhodes proved to be a good leader and was well liked by the student body. He carried on a lively program, and some form of athletic activity was being conducted at all times during the year, from softball in the fall, to swimming at the end of the winter term.

Although the above eight didn't get enough points to be in the bracket with the ones receiving jackets, they did make a good showing and received medals. Burl Dykes and Lynn Buffington, other winners of medals, are not pictured.

The Cards were crowned school champions at the end of the intramural softball season. About fifty-five boys took part in the sport. Each did his part to help his team win. There were several new men who displayed enough ability to oust the old stars from their places.

The Packers were the 1941 football champions, with the 1940 championship Razorbacks falling to third place. Only about thirty-five boys took part in this sport.

Ryan and McReynolds won out in horse shoe doubles. Geer was winner in singles.

Gateley and Ganus defeated Smethers and Berryhill in the finals to take doubles in badminton. Spencer won over Berryhill for singles title.

The Seniors after losing their first game to the Juniors, came back to win the school championship in basketball. This is the first time the Seniors have won the title in several years.

The season was made more interesting because the Seniors and Juniors were tied up when the season came to an end, and an extra game had to be played. The Seniors won 26-20, in the most exciting and best played game of the year. All of the games were played at night and were well attended by the student body. Each team had its pep squad out to root for them. The band was on hand once to add their noise to that of the crowd.

After the preliminaries were run off in wrestling the mat was moved down to the court and all the student body was invited to come out and see the matches. Some of them were short and some went the entire time limit.

Ganus defeated Chubb in the finals to win singles in paddle tennis.

Bill Harris and Sprat Oliver led the Seniors to a victory in the intramural swimming meet. Each took at least one or more first place, and were in winning relays. Oliver took first in diving.

The volley ball championship was won by the Giants. This sport came at a time when other intramural sports were in progress, and only a few signed up for play. Those who did come out found the game to be far faster than they had anticipated. Volley ball is a sport which isn't played very much in this part of the country, and it was the first time for some of the boys.

Girls' Intramurals

Frances Williamson

Myrene Williams

The girls' athletic program was carried out very successfully under the guidance of Frances Williamson and Myrene Williams. All enjoyed the games, and the spectators were surprised there were so many athletes among the girls.

Due to the fact that the points were kept a secret until after the season was over, the program was better and there was keen competition all the way to see who would be among the first fifteen.

Several new sports were introduced, and great benefits were derived by all who took part in the various sports.

Connie Ford, Jane Gateley, Veda McCormick, Louise Nicholas, Mary Alberta Ellis, Lorene Medford, Christella Ford, Ermyl McFadden, Juanita Weaver.
Olive Fogg, Blondell Webb, Iris Merrit, Betty Jo Roades, Verle Craver, Mary Ruth Faulkner.

Evelyn Chesshir, Louise Nicholas, Frances Williamson, Connie Ford, Janey Rosson, Veda McCormick, Mary Ruth Faulkner.
Mary Blanche Jackson, Juanita Weaver, Ermyl McFadden, Maudie Hulett, Iris Merritt.

The Champs scored 83 runs in their five game schedule to win the school championship in softball for 1940-1941. Maudie Hulett was leading batter for the season with an average of .700. She made the all-star team besides helping her team win the title.

Unrated at the start of the season, the Freshmen came through to take the basketball title from teams more experienced in the techniques of the game. They won over such teams as the Seniors 37-19, Sophomores 22-16, and the Juniors 20-7. The Sophomores took second place.

The Vollettes played steady volley ball to defeat the Revelers in the finals 15-3, 15-11, 15-8. Consolation was won by the Bobbies.

Team number one composed of Fogg, Faulkner, Rhoades, Camp and Seimears won the girls' swimming meet by a score of 70 to 62 points.

Connie Ford and Blondell Webb proved to be the better horse shoe tossers on the campus when they defeated Evelyn Chesshir and Mary Alberta Ellis in the finals.

The Toughettes won the championship in shuffle polo. Ermyl McFadden was captain of the winning team, and proved to be a good leader.

In badminton, Mary Alberta Ellis and Verle Craver defeated Olive Fogg and Iris Merritt in the finals to take the title.

Intramurals Offer A Variety of Sports

1. Doyle and Olive take in the track and field events. 2. Helen Mae and Jane vs. Frances and Iris. It was a good game. Clifton teaches John to take it on the chin. 4. Waiting for Cupid, Cliff? 5. Don and Uncle Virgil talk things over. Why the shades, Don? 6. Gorman and Jennings start the freshman-junior game with a leap. 7. Ye olde swimming hole. 8. Bill's powerful forehand smash in action. 9. Hugh lays one down while Buff and Ex look on. 10. Frances serves an ace. 11. The tennis fiends start early (mid-February). They worked up a sweat, too. 12. Marvolene refuses to be aced.

It Was Fun While It Lasted!

1. Betty Jo takes a healthy cut at the ball. Looks as if she hit it, too. 2. Track and Field Day stars preparing to do or die. 3. Was it a strike, Stover? 4. Two points for somebody. 5. The croquet experts at work. 6. That's championship form, Cliff. 7. Some of Harding's bathing beauties enjoying themselves. 8. Looks like a base hit for Johnny, judging by the look on the faces of Ex and Buff. 9. A few minutes after a hard session of physical education.

WAS PRINTED BY

CENTRAL PRINTING CO.

209 LOUISIANA STREET
LITTLE ROCK, ARKANSAS

An aerial photograph of a suburban neighborhood. In the upper portion, several houses are visible, surrounded by lush green trees. A road or driveway runs horizontally across the middle. Below the road, there are several rectangular plots of land, some of which appear to be cleared or under construction. In the lower right corner, a baseball field is visible, with its diamond and bases clearly marked. The overall scene is a typical suburban landscape with a mix of residential buildings and open space.
